Diverse Capabilities and Integrated Delivery

Launched by Cr George Newhouse and then Federal Environment Minister, Malcolm Turnbull, the Bondi redevelopment was always going to attract a lot of attention. In just six months, Citywide transformed Campbell Parade and the Bondi foreshore, delivering one of the highest profile infrastructure projects in NSW. Not one registered complaint was received by the site office from traders and residents during the entire project.

Central to Citywide's successful tender bid was the diverse and integrated nature of company's business. It's civil, roads, trees and parks services teams were all involved in the landmark project.

Citywide has a depth of experience delivering integrated projects. The company has redeveloped and maintained the foreshore stretching from Sandringham and Brighton through St Kilda to Port Melbourne in Victoria.

Project Managed for Customer Satisfaction

Thorough planning ensured high quality works were delivered on time, with minimum disruption to the users of the precinct and the local environment. The redevelopment has made a big difference to traffic management at Bondi beach by improving pedestrian safety and providing a high standard of facilities for thousands of local and international visitors.

Citywide's knowledge of sustainable city development was also applied on the project: stormwater treatment and plant irrigation has been installed along the street fringe.

A row of majestic Mexican Fan Palms (Washingtonia robusta), selected by Citywide horticulturalists for their hardiness and visual appeal, are now a permanent feature of sunsets at Bondi.
