Citywide Executive Appointments

Citywide is pleased to announce the appointment to two executive roles – Matt Williams, Executive – Victorian Operations, and Sarah Hewitt, Executive – Customer Experience & Engagement.

These internal appointments reflect the strength of the talent at Citywide, and the development opportunities that ensure ‘ready now’ appointments are able to be made for key positions.

“Matt and Sarah’s appointments are a testament to our focus on our customers, the market in which we operate, and Citywide’s continued focus on evolving as a business for the future. They both bring experience, energy, passion and an unwavering commitment to doing things better,” said CEO Chris Campbell.

“Matt and Sarah have been central to our leadership team, and continued growth, during the challenging market conditions of the past few years. I’m excited for what they’ll bring to our customers, the community and our stakeholders in their new roles.”

Citywide has a long-standing policy of investing in our people with the aim of shaping liveable cities for our customers and communities. The legacy of understanding our customers and their municipal environment and the thousands of assets under maintenance, and our investment in nurturing and training our people, cannot be underestimated.

About Matt and Sarah

Matt has worked across the Citywide business for more than 20 years and has led the way in recent times with his significant Inner Melbourne commercial portfolio, bringing focus on the service delivery and digitisation of these unique inner Melbourne services.

Sarah has spent almost 25 years in customer engagement and business development roles and joined Citywide four years ago. Sarah will bring a focus to the way we engage with our customers and the communities we serve, including internal and external communications and marketing, and Citywide’s ESG and CSR Sustainability framework.
